

A little about us...

NARSOL is the nation's oldest and largest organization dedicated exclusively to defending the constitutional liberties and human rights of registered and civilly committed citizens and their families.

NARSOL opposes dehumanizing registries and using a post-sentence civil commitment to extend the incarceration period beyond the court-imposed sentence for persons with sexual crime convictions.

In addition, we work to eliminate discrimination, banishment, and vigilantism against persons convicted or accused of sexual offenses through impact litigation, public education, legislative advocacy, and media outreach to reintegrate and reconcile affected individuals and restore their constitutional rights.

We connect you with experienced speaker advocates that epitomize our vision of creating a society free from public shaming, dehumanizing registries, discrimination, and unconstitutionally oppressive laws.

A vital resource to help you spread the word and win over new people to our cause.

NARSOL is pleased to work with your group in providing speakers for your forums, webinars, and meetings. Undoubtedly, they can provide your group with internal education, but we're hoping you will also use them to make contact with church groups, civic groups, criminal justice reform groups, social change groups, and others whose help we need if we are to accomplish our goals.

NARSOL's speakers are acknowledged subject-matter experts in their fields, uniquely passionate and articulate on essential topics.

Our speakers are effective and experienced advocates. Each brings a unique perspective and knowledge that can be matched to the particular interests of your audience. NARSOL Speakers Bureau speakers may not agree with all of NARSOL's goals, however all speakers fundamentally believe in the vision and mission of NARSOL: to work to create a society free from public shaming, dehumanizing registries; discrimination; and unconstitutional laws.

Speaker topics include but are not limited to:

- Public registration and civil commitment;
- Myths and realities regarding recidivism;
- Collateral consequences such as family impact, community support, housing, and employment;
- Advocating with elected officials on controversial topics;
- Reentry and treatment information;
- NARSOL and its work;
- Restorative justice.

Many of our speakers ask only for reimbursement for travel expenses. Some may request a reasonable honorarium.

It's easy to set up a speaking engagement. A NARSOL Speakers Bureau representative can help you make the reservation, or you can contact your speaker directly.

You can find the NARSOL Speakers Bureau online at <https://narsol.org/narsol-speakers-bureau/> or via the narsol.org menu under the "Resources" tab as "NARSOL Speakers Bureau." Each speaker's listing contains an image, a full bio, extended speaking topics, and access to a contact/booking form. When you submit a contact/booking request, the speaker or a NARSOL Speakers Bureau coordinator will contact you to organize the speaking engagement.

“At our bi-monthly Spotlight Meeting on Zoom, we invite outside speakers to share topics of interest. We have used participants from the NARSOL Speakers Bureau to speak on topics ranging from housing for registrants to 3rd rail politics. These meetings have been well attended and have been a highlight for us. The NARSOL Speakers Bureau has been an invaluable resource.”
