

NARSOL STAFF ATTORNEY

LAWRENCE “LARRY” KING, ESQ.

Lawrence “Larry” King, Esq. brings a wealth of experience and a passionate commitment to our cause. He believes strongly in NARSOL's mission and recognizes the critical role we play in challenging the punitive and unconstitutional nature of registration laws.

Larry understands the profound impact that sexual offense law and policy has, including public shaming and long-term consequences that extend far beyond original sentences for individuals, their families, and communities.. He resonates with NARSOL's focus on justice, fairness, and providing second chances, especially our efforts to challenge these laws on constitutional grounds, which aligns with his passion for fighting unjust and dehumanizing policies.

Larry's extensive background in criminal defense and civil rights law, particularly in areas such as registration requirements and parole conditions, makes him an ideal addition to our team. He has represented numerous clients facing arbitrary restrictions and legal challenges disconnected from their cases and has advocated for those trapped in restrictive residential treatment.

His legal training and experience with marginalized populations provide him with a deep understanding of the constitutional issues at stake. He has witnessed the lasting harm these laws inflict and is deeply committed to fighting these injustices. His expertise in appellate advocacy and legal research will significantly contribute to NARSOL's efforts to challenge and reform these laws on constitutional grounds.

It is important to note that Larry is not taking on individual criminal defense cases. Rather, he is focused on NARSOL's legal caseload, which includes civil rights challenges to the constitutionality of sexual offense laws and policies as submitted and reviewed through our screening process.
